LOOKING INSIDE

By Pastor Bob Guidry, Jr.

How should we worship God? This question has separated us for centuries. It has been the cause of much grief. Fortunately, it has also revealed many expressions of worship that have been lost over the years. Before I go further, I would like to make one thing very clear: Not every sacrifice given to God is acceptable to him. Our worship must not only be directed to him, but it must be done his way.

In the fourth chapter of Genesis, God rejects Cain's sacrifice. Why did God do this?

It was established by God that "without the shedding of blood there is no remission of sin." Cain's sacrifice consisted of vegetables. (This is where we get the saying, "You can't get blood out of a turnip.")

Many may try to reason, "Isn't it good enough just to give something to God?" By the same token you might say the IRS should be satisfied with our simply paying our taxes.

It is not enough that we pay our taxes; we have to pay them the way the IRS decides. Why is it this way?

The IRS makes the rules and it is up to us to play by them. It is the same way with God. He makes the rules and all of us who want to serve him must play by his rules.

It is here that I want to give you the good news: God's list of rules is not a list of don'ts.

God has made each one of us with certain talents and abilities. He has given these to us for the purpose of worshiping him.

Today God is trying to bring out the gifts he has given us.

These gifts are not limited to singing or preaching or playing an instrument. They are found in our everyday life.

Expression is good for the soul

If God has given you a gift to do carpentry work, then you should glorify God in your carpentry, but don't give God second best.

The Bible tells us in Ephesians 4:1 that we should walk worthy of the vocation where-with we have been called.

We should worship God every day with the gifts God has given us, not just in a church on Sunday.

Worship should be an expression of love that flows out of us via the gifts God has given us.

Next time you worship God, express yourself through the gift God has given you.

EDITORIAL

Your vote will count Tuesday

Tuesday is a very important day for Hancock Countians, as we will elect the person who will serve our district for the next two years in Congress.

Tuesday is also a very important day for the qualified electors of the City of Waveland, as it is the day of the Democratic Primary.

Tuesday is also an important day for Mississippians, as the qualified electors of the state will be voting on seven Constitutional Amendments.

So the most important part of Tuesday is that all the qualified electors of Hancock County should go to the polls and vote.

Every vote does count. In recent years in Waveland there have been elections won just by a single vote.

The candidates all have been working very hard campaigning and seeking your vote. Now's the time to do your part by going to the polls on Tuesday.

As a good citizen, you can make sure your friends and neighbors are reminded that Tuesday is an election day. Why not give them a call Tuesday to remind them.

Too, you may want to make sure those without transportation have a means of reaching the polls.

The roots of our nation are based upon the freedom to vote for the candidate or candidates of our choice. There are still people of the world who do not have an opportunity of voting for the people who rule over them.

Remember, the polls will be open from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m.

I know many folks hate to think about it, but the Thanksgiving season is almost upon us with Christmas following closely.

If you have not already done so, now is the time to begin planning for both Thanksgiving and Christmas.

I realize many families like to be together for the holidays and this involves a lot of travel for some folks.

It is not too early to begin making plans, especially if flying is involved in the travels.

Indications are that there may be some problems this year with the increases in fuel costs, so if you haven't booked your flight, time is wasting.

Youngsters are now beginning to plan what they want for Christmas and some parents are already in the process of securing some of the 'wishes.'

I talked to Fire Chief Andrew Lizana this past week. As many of you know, he has one of the largest Christmas shopping lists of anyone in the area, and he is already looking for bargains.

The Hancock County Doll and Toy Fund, of which Chief Lizana is chairman, supplies toys to many of our area's deserving youngsters each year.

Many of these children would not even have a toy for Christmas if it weren't for the Doll and Toy Fund.

The Doll and Toy Fund began many years ago as a small operation with volunteer firefighters repairing some old bikes and other toys just for a few children. Now the number of children has grown to around 1,000 or more.

The Hancock County Doll and Toy Fund is one of the many agencies of the Hancock County United Way. In addition to its United Way sponsorship, it receives contributions of cash and toys from individuals and businesses.

As children grow, many toys can be recycled and other children use them for many hours of joy.

If you would like to make a contribution to the fund with cash or toys, drop them off at the Bay St. Louis Fire Station, Old Spanish Trail. A needy child's wish for a visit from Santa at Christmas will come true with your contributions, large or small.

Efforts are now being prepared to secure the names of the many deserving youngsters who will enjoy a happy Christmas through your generosity.

This will be made possible by the Hancock County Doll and Toy Fund which exists because we are a caring community.

Let's help make this Chief Lizana's biggest year yet!

Remember to vote on Tuesday. Your vote is needed.

State Attorney General's slot may be challenged

One of the prime topics of political speculation these days is the supposed re-election vulnerability of Atty. Gen. Mike Moore because of his seemingly unending pratfalls while on the public stage.

The most recent political blunder chalked up against Moore was his courtroom tussle with a witness in a gambling case at Vicksburg.

That came after such other Moore faux pas as having personal photographers video tape his filing of papers to revive a 1916 constitutional amendment and restore the people's power of initiating laws; the appearance of him being Gov. Ray Mabus' stalking horse in a failed attempt to push Senate approval of a lottery referendum and his ill-fated race for Congress last fall.

In several areas of the state, including his own home—Jackson County—bumper stickers with "No Moore" have begun to blossom as critics zero in on Moore's political mistakes, fanning talk that "somebody" can unseat him in 1991.

Finding that "somebody," however, is apparently an elusive task right now in the ranks of Moore-bashers, but there's no question a search is on to find that somebody.

One reputedly "hot" prospect, Dist. Atty. Frank Carlton of Greenville, a former state legislator, admitted to this column last week he had been approached by some "friends," several of whom are in politics, about making a race against Moore next year. Carlton believes Moore is beatable, but he also says he is inclined to keep the job he now has.

While he did not slam the door on running for AG, Carlton evidently held out so little hope to the anti-Moore forces that plans to hold a fundraiser for him in December were dropped.

Since Carlton's departure from the picture, a new round of speculation began to crop up that former Atty. Gen. Ed Pittman, who won an unexpired term on the state Supreme Court a year ago, is dissatisfied being on the bench and may be thinking about winning his old job back next year.

Pittman had tried unsuccessfully to step up from AG to governor in 1987, finishing sixth in a seven-man Democratic gubernatorial primary that was won by Mabus.

Pittman is believed in state political circles to be one of those who is encouraging opposition to Moore, although he has taken no open role.

Carlton, a longtime political friend of Pittman, told this column he had received a call from Pittman recently assuring him that if he (Carlton) makes the race for AG "we're not going to bump into each other down the line."

Close political associates of Pittman say that the stubby veteran of Mississippi political wars is now in need of financial security, and would be unlikely to risk his $75,800 Supreme Court seat for the $61,200 AG post.

However, some paint a different scenario. It is well known that Pittman has a burning ambition dating back to when as a youngster he was governor of Boys' State, to become governor of the state. He has run twice and failed.

His best chance to take another shot at the governor's chair, goes this theory, is to regain the high visibility which the AG's office can give, and not by staying in a low-visibility slot on the Supreme Court.

There is another important aspect: That political animosity between Pittman and Moore has existed at least since early 1987 when Moore, then a Jackson County DA, announced his candidacy for Attorney General before Pittman had finally decided to run for governor instead of re-election as AG.

Pittman called up Moore and upbraided him like a schoolboy for having the audacity to come out for AG while Pittman was still trying to decide on running for governor.

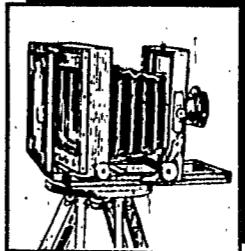

The essence of the conversation from there, say intimates of Moore, was that Pittman proceeded to threaten to "ruin" Moore politically.

The highly combative Moore is said to have snapped back: "I don't know what you're running for, but I'm running for attorney general."

The political consensus is that Pittman will not doff his Supreme Court robes to challenge Moore next year. But in the meantime, Pittman will be sitting on a court that may well decide Moore's political future on the legality of bingo games and the historic issue of reinstating after 68 years the people's right of initiative and referendum.

Moore is the first attorney general to ever confront two such burning philosophical issues. So it may not be politically smart.

WASHINGTON REPORT
By Senator
Thad Cochran

Defense funding bill includes $5.2 billion for Mississippi

U.S. Senator Thad Cochran said the Senate Appropriations Committee has approved a bill providing $5.2 billion for programs and activities in Mississippi.

Senator Cochran, a member of the Defense Appropriations subcommittee, said that level of defense spending will contribute substantially to the economy of the state of Mississippi because of the jobs that will result for contractors and suppliers. Among the major items of interest are the following:

—C-130 Aircraft - The bill contains $541 million for a total of 23 aircraft, which are manufactured in part at the Lockheed plant at Meridian, and —Mark 48 ADCAP Torpedo - $350 million for 240 torpedoes. Hughes Aircraft Mississippi, at Forest, is one of two producers of these modern torpedoes.

Language was also included in the bill directing the Air Force to maintain the hurricane reconnaissance fleet at Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi.

The Senate will consider the $268 billion bill to fund the nation's defense systems early next week.

More powerful than a sizzling bug light.
Cheaper than insect repellent.

Able to eat 600 mosquitoes in a single hour.

No, it's not the purple martin.

It's the bat. That tiny mammal, that creepy little "creature" that scares the heck out of people.

Only now, once you listen to Robin Berry of the Wildlife and Rehabilitation Center in Pineville, you discover there is really nothing to fear.

Bats are not major rabies carriers, as most people think. "Fewer than one-half of one percent of wild bats have tested positive for the infection," said Berry.

She added, "Bats do not swoop down to grab at hair or to bite. They are basically shy and docile."

Like any wild creature, they will defend themselves when cornered.

Bats are primarily insect and fruit eaters.

Three species of bats do drink blood, but not Mississippi blood. You must go to Central or South America to find the "vampire" bats. They do not suck the blood, they bite and lick the wound, they bite and lick the blood, consuming up to an ounce. This particular species preys chiefly on birds, wild animals and live stock.

The benefits of bats extend to their roles as pollinators and/or seed dispersers. Among a variety of crops which benefit from their existence are bananas, avocados, peaches, mangoes and cashews.

First two to be rescued

Two of 16 brown bats that were trapped in a drop ceiling at Pass Christian Middle School are placed in a container lined in burlap for warmth. (Echo staff photo by Jacqui Cochran)

Bats live up to 30 years and vary in size from the six-foot wing span of the flying foxes, an "Old World" bat, to the tiny bumble bee bats of Thailand, which weigh less than a penny.

Bats make use of a type of radar called echolocation. By emitting very high-pitched sounds and listening for their echoes, bats locate objects such as prey or obstructions to flight.

Berry has investigated six homes locally that have reported the presence of bats since she has been with the center. "Mostly from Waveland and Bay St. Louis," she said.

Berry explained what to do if you suspect bats in the belfry. "All bats have a biological clock. Weather permitting, they will leave their roost within one hour after sunset and return about two in the morning. Stand outside your home and watch for where they depart. After they leave for their evening hunt, board up the opening."

Berry asks that "people with a bat problem, when you call a pest control company, please find one that will not kill the animals. There are ethical companies that know about using a net to cover the opening, from which the bats will climb to leave the roost but not be able to re-enter. This allows time for all the bats to leave before boarding up the opening."

Bats usually have only one offspring. Berry has seen one with three babies, but it had to receive help from other bats to nurse them. Mother bats carry the unborn bat for 9-10 months and have the ability to stop pregnancy growth during hibernation. Offspring are born in June and July.

If bats can be sighted in an area, a bat house can be useful to encourage their presence.

A bat house is similar to a bird house, a rectangular box with a top but no bottom. Inside, slats of wood are placed row by row to give the bats a roosting area.

In the field of mosquito warfare, every little bat helps.

GAMBLING SERIES

"Taking A Chance," WLOX-TV NewsWatch 13 special series, deals with gambling on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

The series airs every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday during Nightwatch at 10 p.m. ending Nov. 22.

Bob Noonan will deal with the history of gambling on the Mississippi Gulf Coast. Rhonda Weidner will look at other states that plan to have dockside gambling.

Gurvir Dhindsa will explore riverboat gambling in Natchez and Vicksburg and Jeff Lawson will explore the current controversy surrounding dockside gambling and its future.

On Thursday, Nov. 29 from 8 to 9 p.m., WLOX will present "Viewpoint Mississippi" on dockside gambling. A host of experts will field questions from a studio audience and viewers will have the opportunity to phone in questions. "Viewpoint Mississippi," hosted by Bob Noonan, will be broadcast live from the WLOX Television Studios.

ELECT
Mayor For Waveland

IT'S TIME FOR A CHANGE!

My family and I share your concerns about the future of our wonderful city. It is time to start into a new direction for a better Waveland.

I have been out on the streets of Waveland trying to bring my message to each and every citizen. I have not been making any promises, but have told you what I hope to accomplish as mayor.

I now ask for your vote because I feel I am the best qualified candidate to lead Waveland into a secure future. Isn't it time for the next generation to take over?

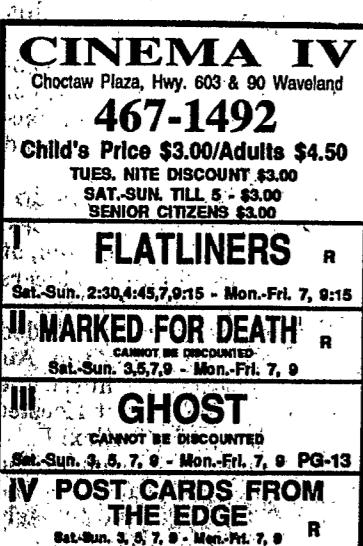

I now promise to work hard to improve Waveland. To be available, to listen, to be open minded, to be fair in all matters concerning Waveland, to answer all calls, to follow up on all problems, to answer all questions, and to do my best to manage Waveland properly.

Waveland needs a good experienced manager to be our mayor. Let's build a better future together.

JOHN LONGO

Mayor Waveland

FACT: 28 years of service never missed a meeting

FACT: Through mutual respect and determination with Governor Waller, brought Buccaneer Park to Waveland.

FACT: Went to Atlanta and Washington and worked with E.P.A. to bring the most environmentally sound wastewater plant to Waveland and Hancock County.

FACT: With combined work of quality staff and crews built all new fire and police stations which lowered our insurance rates.

FACT: Waveland is soundly run. It is always in the black and has the highest bond rating possible.

FACT: Wrote and had passed through Congress, the Fishermens Aid Bill, helping all fishermen.

FACT: Not only has there not been a tax increase - but Mayor Longo has decreased taxes from 28 mills to 13 1/2 mills.

FACT: Federal money has already been approved for the extension of sewerage in Ward 1 and other areas. Work is about to begin.

FACT: New businesses are coming to Waveland and its tax base is growing faster than any surrounding city's.

We appreciate your efforts to stay clear of the untruths and character attacks that have taken place in this election. Waveland has been and hope will always be better than that!

We also appreciate the personal help from Mayor Longo to citizens, church and civic groups in our areas. These go unnoticed. Mayor Longo is a full time mayor. We who have grown up in Waveland and have watched it grow but still maintain its small town helpfulness and friendliness. Thank you and the many who have helped.

and about a lot in the next few days."

Of the race in general, Kurowski said, "We feel really good about it. Sheila has worked her heart out on this campaign."

Of Smith's campaign in particular, Kurowski said interest has been piqued in recent days. The response to Smith's campaign has increased in several areas—telephone calls, letters, requests for position papers and people simply walking into campaign headquarters and asking for information.

Like Kurowski, Alexander said members of the Taylor camp are pleased with the race so far. "You really feel the momentum out there becoming solid behind Gene's campaign," Alexander commented.

He and Kurowski both said their main concern is low voter turnout for Tuesday's election, and both encouraged registered voters to cast their ballots.

Red Rebels drop Hawks in 23-21 cliffhanger

Special to the Echo

BY PATRICK MCKEE
The Harrison Central Red Rebels narrowly defeated the Hancock Hawks 23-21 Friday night in a game that had the fans on their feet.

The end result depended upon the success of one field goal and near miss of another. With 2:21 left in the game, Red Rebel kicker Chad Nichols booted a 21-yard field goal to give his team the lead.

As the seconds wound down, the Hawks fought their way into field goal range. First the Hawks called a time out, then the Red Rebels countered with one of their own. Hawk kicker Terrance Goff readied himself for the ball.

When the snap came, everyone in the stadium held their breath. Goff kicked, and the ball flew just a little wide to the right. The Red Rebels and their fans were ecstatic.

"They played an outstanding game," said Hancock coach Irvin Favre of his team. "The kids played hard all night. They didn't fold up."

He added that the loss was a heartbreaker.

"It was a great football game," said Harrison Central coach Ted Taylor. "I am proud of our kids."

Commenting on Hancock, Taylor said, "They have a great football team. We knew they were going to get after us."

Both teams showed an intense effort to keep the other from winning. The Hawks were the first to score when Goff crossed the end zone on a 3-yard run. Quarterback Regan Lander connected with a pass to running back Jerome Vince for a 2-point conversion, and the score was 8-0.

The Red Rebels put 6 points on the scoreboard when running back David Moore made an outstanding 49-yard dash. A penalty for illegal motion nullified the first 2-point conversion. The second attempt failed, and the score was 8-6.

Penalties against the Red Rebels hampered their ability to score again in the first half. However, the Hawks scored again with 2:35 left in the first quarter. Goff, who is nicknamed "The Flash," ran a punt return for 55 yards. Gabe Lumpkin kicked for the extra point, and it was a 15-6 ballgame.

In the third quarter Harrison Central closed the gap to 15-13 when Averie Bush charged 35 yards for a TD. Nichols connected for the extra point.

Late in the third quarter the Hawks were again in scoring position. But on the 5-yard line Red Rebel Reggie Seymour intercepted a Hawk pass to begin a drive that led to a 20-15 lead. With 10:55 remaining in the game, Bush scored the TD, and Nichols made the PAT.

The Hawks refused to have their wings clipped. Goff flashed across the goal line on a 8-yard run, but the 2-point conversion attempt failed. The score was now 21-20 in favor of the Hawks, but there were still just under 7 minutes left.

It took the Red Rebels a little over four of those minutes to regain the lead when Nichols kicked the field goal. The failed attempt by Goff came with just 31 seconds remaining.

Harrison Central rushed for a total of 364 yards to Hancock's 104. The Hawks led in total passing yardage 163 to the Red Rebels' 43.

While Hancock had only three penalties called against them for a loss of 20 yards, the Red Rebels accumulated nine penalties for a total loss of 80 yards.

The state playoffs begin next Friday night. Favre speculated that the Hawks would be hosting McComb.

Unsafe dioxin levels close waters to commercial fishing

The Mississippi Commission on Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks issued a public notice Oct. 25, closing certain waters to commercial fishing until further notice because the Department of Environmental Quality determined through laboratory tests that fish caught in these streams had levels of dioxin above safe levels for human consumption.

1. Leaf River from Tallahala

Creek to the Pascagoula River at Merrill.

2. Pascagoula River from Merrill to US-90 bridge where it crosses the East Pascagoula, Middle and West Pascagoula rivers.

3. Escatawpa River from I-10 to the Pascagoula River in Jackson County.

Other waters previously closed to commercial fishing are:

1. Yockanookany River below Kosciusko from Hwy. 35 to Hwy. 429.

2. Little Conehoma Creek.

These streams were found to have fish with levels of polychlorinated biphenyls above the safe levels for human consumption.

Two other lakes under advisory for fish consumption by the Department of Environmental Quality are Lake Suzie, an oxbow lake off the former Little Tallahatchie River channel near Batesville, and Country Club Estate Lake, a residential lake near Hattiesburg.

Wolves devour Rocks

Special to the Echo
BY TOM ACKERMAN

The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws faced their strongest test of the season Friday at Covington, La., and tame up short.

The St. Paul Wolves, 10-0 in the season, handed the Rocks a 41-6 loss, bringing SSC to 7-3 in regular season play.

St. Paul's keys to victory were the strong passing of quarterback Gary Schexnairde coupled with the swift running of Nilo Silvan, and pass receptions and interceptions by fullback Dartanian Sanders.

The Rock-A-Chaw defense, ranked ninth overall in the state, was unable to contain the strong St. Paul offense.

The first five minutes of the game set the tone for the evening. With 8:54 on the clock, the Wolves scored and added the PAT; a little over a minute later, 7:15 on the clock, they added another touchdown, taking a 14-0 lead.

On their reception, the Rocks looked as though they would make a game of it. Mickey Quinlan took the kickoff and returned to the Stanislaus 21. Ken Booker added yardage on first down, and Galen Smith made a sensational catch of a Bill Dreher pass on second down to complete a 79-yard play for the Rocks' only score.

St. Paul added another TD in the first period, two more in the second quarter, with PATs, and a final score early in the third quarter on a pass interception and 47-yard return for the 41-point lead.

On drives, the Rocks earned 10 firsts to the Wolves' 14. On the ground, SSC was held to 76 yards rushing compared to St. Paul's 180.

In the passing game, Dreher threw 141 for Stanislaus, matched by St. Paul's Schexnairde's 141.

On punts, Rock Scott Peter-son averaged 32 yards on four kicks.

Now the Rocks will have to regroup and prepare for next week. Based on Friday's results in District 7, SSC will travel to South Pike for their first-ever playoff in football.

Bassin' with the pros

Try these crankbait tricks for larger bass

Most bass fishermen consider spinnerbaits and jigs or plastic worms their most versatile lures, since they can be fished shallow or deep, fast or slow, around thick cover or in open water.

There's another lure that's just as versatile, and perhaps even more adaptable, however, and most anglers have a box full of them. They're crankbaits, those minnow-shaped plugs with the plastic bills that dive to various depths when retrieved, or "cranked."

"I fish crankbaits a lot," explains well-known guide and bass tournament pro Steve Daniel of the Johnson Outboards Pro Staff.

"If you can develop a feel for the lure and learn a few tricks with it, you can catch some big bass that other anglers would miss."

The first trick, says Daniel, is to make certain you use a crankbait that dives deep enough to hit the bottom where you're fishing.

For example, if you're fishing five feet of water, use a crankbait designed for 10 foot depths; if you're fishing 10 feet deep, use a lure that can dive to 15 or 20 feet.

"The bottom is usually the major strike zone area," says the Johnson pro. The longer you can keep a lure in the strike zone, the better your chances for a strike."

The next trick, says Daniel, is to use a limber, fairly light action rod so you can develop a true feel for the lure. Such a rod will be more sensitive and telegraph the lure's actions to you.

"Don't set the hook every time you feel the lure hit something," cautions Daniel. "If you do, you'll get snagged a lot. Just stop reeling momentarily so the lure will start to float up, and it will usually free itself."

"If it is a bass, it will generally hook itself, and you'll feel it pulling away from you."

You can help control a crankbait's depth by the size line you use, Daniel adds. The heavier the line, the more shallow the lure will dive, and conversely, the lighter the line, the deeper a crankbait dives.

"In lily pads, you don't want a crankbait to run very deep, but you need a really deep diving lure because its longer bill will make it more weedless. The answer is to use heavier line, such as 17-pound test."

"Another trick," adds Daniel, "is to make shorter casts when you're crankbaiting heavy cover. This also helps keep the lure from diving so deep. It's on those longer casts that you really get in trouble."

OMC SystemMatched Parts and Accessories offer a weedless plastic prop for most Johnson and Evinrude electric position-

"I like to fish lily pads and heavy brush with a crankbait," says Daniel, "because you can reel crankbait down until it hits something, then stop reeling and let it float up, then reel it right back down again."

ing motors.

The prop features a hub that fits closely to the motor body to keep weeds from wrapping around the prop shaft. It's available from most Johnson and Evinrude dealers.

If we hired people at Garden Park Community Hospital only for their proficiency in clinical care—how quickly they can give out medication, how easily they can fill out a chart or how skillfully they can bandage a wound, we could hire the same people any hospital does.

But we don't. We hire people for more than that.

We hire them for their proficiency in patient care—how quickly they can drop what they're doing if a patient needs them, how easily they can make a patient feel comfortable or how skillfully they can listen.

And because of that, we get the kind of people you won't find in other hospitals. People like Liz Covington who treat their Garden Park patients the same way they treat their family. With unqualified compassion. The utmost respect. And as much attention as they can handle.

State-of-the-art technology? The latest medical procedures? Employees who can recite their clinical care manuals chapter and verse? You can find those at most hospitals, including Garden Park.

Pirates bag Tigers 34-0

Special to the Echo
BY BURT TAYLOR

The Bay High Tigers ended their 1990 football season on a losing note as they hosted the Pass Christian Pirates Friday night at Joe D. McCulloch Stadium.

Pirate running back Charles Lizama scored on a 13-yard run and a 4-yard run for two of their touchdowns in the 34-0 shutout. He also intercepted a Tiger pass late in the fourth quarter and raced 40 yards untouched for his third touchdown of the game.

Wide receiver Renaldo DeVallade scored the second pirate TD midway through the first quarter on a flea flicker that covered 57 yards. The final Pirate TD came in the fourth quarter on a 30-yard run from scrimmage by RB Willie Washington.

The Tigers mounted one impressive drive late in the first quarter with the Pirates leading 12-0. The drive began at the Bay High 37 after the kickoff following the Pirate's second TD, and took 12 plays and 6:57 off the clock.

It ended at the Pass High one-yard line as the Tigers gave up the ball on downs with 10:50 remaining in the first half. Jason Loiacano and Romalles Wilkerson were the workhorses on the drive as they rushed for 25 and 20 yards respectively.

The only other bright spot in the game for the Tigers came with 10:28 remaining with the score 20-0. On first and 10 at the Pirate 40, quarterback Charlie Mitchell hit wide receiver Mike Sharp at the 5-yard line. Sharp scampered the remaining yards to the goal line for a Tiger TD. However, the play was called back as the Tigers were penalized for illegal motion.

The Bay High Athletic Club and Bay High School Administration proclaimed the night senior appreciation night. Recognition was given to the senior cheerleaders, band members and football players.

North Bay honors Ellis

North Bay Elementary students combined their creative talents to design drug awareness banners in conjunction with "Red Ribbon Week." Winning top honors in each grade were: Kindergarten, Mrs. Lesley Stone's class; first grade, Linda Reeves' class; second grade, Danita Luttrell's class; third grade, Karen Deem's class; and Mitchell Kegley's exceptional education class. Alicia Ellis was honored for her volunteer work with the coastwide "Me-Ology" program, which emphasizes self-esteem and offers drug education information. North Bay principal Kim Stasny noted all of Ellis' work is done "out of love for our children along the Mississippi Gulf Coast. Silently and quietly, she has been able to touch thousands of lives."

WEDDINGS, ENGAGEMENTS

Deschamp-Lee

Catahoula Baptist Church was the setting for the wedding of Joyce Michelle Lee of Picayune and Benford Lee Deschamp of Pass Christian. Brother Jewel Prince officiated at the afternoon ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mary Elizabeth Lee Fail of Picayune and the late Clark Lee. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Deschamp of Pass Christian.

Music was provided by Bobby Brignac, pianist, Wayne Williams, soloist, and Christy Lumpkin, pianist/soloist.

Given in marriage by her brother, Jesse Lee, the bride wore a floor-length taffeta gown layered in organza with chantilly lace, detailed with sequins and pearls. The back of the gown featured a six-foot train, also detailed with sequins and pearls.

The bride wore a pearl chevron headband accented with satin flowers and pearl sprays, which held in place a short veil of bridal net.

The bride carried a bouquet of roses and rosebuds, accented with pearl sprays and ribbons.

Rachel Ladner served as matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were Karen Seal, Monica Malley, Christy Necaise, Andrea Ladner, Melissa Lee, Thirrey Necaise and Rachel Malstrom.

Miniature bride was Heather Cantrell. Miniature groom was T.J. Lumpkin.

The best man was Travis Ladner. Ushers included Cedric Ladner, Glenn Ladner, Fletcher Ladner, Keith Meranto, Casey Deschamp, Carl Adams and Jamie Farve.

The couple took a honeymoon cruise to the Bahamas before making their home in Pass Christian.

Pre-nuptial parties

Rachel Ladner and the bride's family gave the bride two household showers. The groom's family gave a rehearsal dinner the eve of the wedding.

MR. AND MRS. BENFORD LEE DESCHAMP

Sims-Alexander

First Assembly of God in Waveland was the setting for the wedding of Sherrie Ann Strong Alexander and Jonathan David Sims. The Rev. Mickey Green officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Strong. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Sims of Little Rock, Arkansas.

Music was provided by pianist/organist Judith Stevens and soloists Cheryl Thomas, Tommy Strong, Harris LaPointe and Lynette LaPointe.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an informal gown of ivory lace, fashioned with a sabrina neckline, long sleeves and fitted bodice. The bodice featured a low v-cut back, and the full skirt swept from a basque waistline to a high-low hemline.

The bride wore a veil attached to a pearl chevron headband accented with satin flowers and pearl sprays. She carried a bouquet of ivory silk roses.

Theresa Strong served as matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Dina Sims and Diana Phillips.

The attendants wore tea length gowns of dark rose taffeta with ivory lace trim at the neckline. They carried free-form clusters of pink carnations.

Flower girl was Mindy Alexander. Ring bearer was Brian Alexander.

The flower girl wore a dress identical to those worn by the attendants. She carried an ivory basket with pink rose petals.

The best man was Gary Bridges. Groomsmen were Chris Strong and Charles Phillips. Ushers were Bobby Perkins and Aaron Smith.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Bay/Waveland Jaycee Hall.

After a honeymoon trip to Nashville, Tenn., the couple resides in Waveland.

CLUBS, AUXILIARIES

Blue Jeans Garden Club

Blue Jeans Garden Club members met at Coast Electric's Crew Room in Bay St. Louis Thursday, Oct. 18.

The opening prayer was lead by hostess Jennie Ortiz who also read a poem, "What a Smile Can Do," by Elsie Natalie Brady. Co-hostesses were Alice Brechtel, Mayola Rotterham and Melba Felder.

Following the opening address, Dot Feaheny, president, called Beverly Coogan, secretary, for the reading of the September minutes, which were unanimously accepted.

In the absence of the treasurer, vice-president Margaret Heitzmann gave the treasurer's report, which was also unanimously accepted.

Among the various programs suggested to support, members voted 100 percent to continue helping by bringing canned foods for the Food Pantry and RSVP Desert Shield.

Members agreed to bring Christmas cards and goodies to the November meeting for our troops away from home.

Dot Feaheny appointed Betty Klein, Gladys Goodloe and Virginia Thomas to serve on a nominating committee for the election of 1991 officers at the November meeting.

Betty Klein thoroughly explained the rules of the "point system" as well as the judging of the Thanksgiving and Christmas arrangements, which is another favorite club event for the Blue Jeans during the November meeting.

In the absence of Christmas luncheon chairman Mary Danne, Dot Feaheny reported on the group's Christmas party luncheon Thursday, Dec. 13 at Diamondhead.

The very busy and productive meeting was followed by an afternoon social and fun and games, which were enjoyed by all in attendance.

Professional Secretaries

The Gulf Coast Chapter of Professional Secretaries International held its monthly meeting on Monday, Oct. 8 at the Harrison County Tourism Building in Gulfport.

Cathy Durnal, RN, coordinator, Center for Women's Health, Memorial Hospital in Gulfport, gave a very informative talk entitled, "Working in a Man's World."

Keynote speaker for the November 12 meeting will be Emanuel G. DeFraites Jr., MD, adult service director for CPC Sand Hill Hospital in Gulfport. Dr. DeFraites will present a program on anxiety disorders and stress.

Secretaries interested in the Professional Secretaries International organization may contact Donna Corr at 865-5197 or Lee Bettis 374-0404/872-1096.

Meetings are on the second Monday of each month at Harrison County Tourism Building, 135 Courthouse Road, Gulfport, at 6 p.m.

Current issues, big stars open new season for 'Sesame Street'

What makes Big Bird different from his best friend Mr. Shufflepagan? Big Bird is tall and fluffy, Snuffy is short and plump.

What makes Maria different from Susan? What makes Elmo different from Oscar?

What makes them alike?

The answer is simple, they all live on that magical avenue known as "Sesame Street."

The landmark children's television program will begin a new season on Monday, Nov. 12 at 4:30 p.m. on Mississippi ETV with a major new emphasis: improving racial harmony by educating young children about the physical and cultural differences of other people.

These lessons will be educational, but also fun. To help make the experience delightful will be comedian Robin Williams coming to visit Elmo and learning that you can be someone's friend because of the things that are different as well as those that are the same.

Part of "Sesame Street's" staying power is a result of the show's keeping up-to-date in many ways. This season there will be a visit from the popular TV characters The Simpsons; and the Count, sporting a funky new hairstyle, will rap with the group "Kid 'n' Play."

Sports star Bo Jackson, Broadway's Tyne Daly and singer Ray Charles are other celebrities who will appear on "Sesame Street" during the new season, providing learning for preschoolers and entertainment for their parents and older siblings.

These stars and still more celebrities will appear in a music video, "Monster in the Mirror," featuring lovable puppet Grover and a cast including Glenn Close, Candace Bergen, Lou Diamond Phillips, Malcolm Jamal Warner, Whoopi Goldberg, Julia Roberts;

Jeff Goldblum, Geena Davis, Tracey Ullman, Tim Robbins, Kadeem Hardison, Chubby Checker, Jeff Smith (PBS's "Frugal Gourmet") and PBS newscasters Robert MacNeil and Charlaine Hunter-Gault.

Despite the tragic loss in May of Jim Henson, creator of the Muppets and the man behind Kermit the Frog, Ernie, Guy Smiley and other characters, the show's 22nd season will not reveal a noticeable difference.

"Sesame Street" has always mixed short taped segments with its new material, executive producer Dulcy Singer reminds. The practice will continue, allowing viewers to see Henson's much-loved characters in a variety of adventures.

"Sesame Street" is broadcast daily on the Mississippi Educational Television Network at 7:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Gulfport Theatre presents "Nunsense"

Gulfport Little Theatre will open its doors this week to the Gulf Coast musical premiere of "Nunsense."

The show is still running off Broadway after winning the Outer Circle Critics Award, including Best Off-Broadway Show.

It wasn't until recently that rights were released to community theatres, and Gulfport Little Theatre immediately changed its scheduled season to bring this show to Coast audiences.

"Nunsense" is a hilarious musical revolving around the toe-tapping antics of five nuns and their fundraiser for their convent.

Keith Ballard, usually seen on the stage, is making his directing debut at GLT and is also the production's choreographer.

From several auditions, Keith chose a cast of talented young ladies. Starring as the "Sisters of Hoboken" are Terese Gargiulo, Becky Green, Kathy Mangin, Jenifer Mauterer and Diane Pride. Kathy Dodge is returning once again to serve as musical director and pianist with a combo under her direction.

"Nunsense" will open Nov. 9 at 8 p.m. and continue Nov. 10 at 8 p.m. with a Sunday matinee on the 11th at 2 p.m.

Reservations and tickets are available by calling the box office at 864-7983 between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. or 5 to 7 p.m. weekdays, or by leaving a message on the 24-hour answering machine.

Tickets are $7.50 adults, $5 for students and a discounted ticket for senior citizens on Sunday of $6.50.

Because of the demand for advance ticket sales, reservations are highly recommended.

Coastal cleanup draws record number volunteers

The EPA Gulf of Mexico Program Office announced the 1990 results of the "Take Pride Gulf-wide" coastal cleanup that took place on Sept. 22.

"The beach cleanup was an outstanding success," said Dr. Douglas A. Lipka, director of the Gulf of Mexico Program.

"We were pleased to support the efforts of the Gulf States, Center for Marine Conservation (CMC) and citizen volunteers who made this cleanup process work."

The goal this year was to recruit 25,000 volunteers to cover approximately 1,000 miles of the Gulf's U. S. coastline. The goal was exceeded by 11,900 participants.

Nearly 40,000 volunteers including federal agencies, the oil and gas industry, private conservation groups, local governments, leaders from Gulf of Mexico ports and the commercial and recreational fishing industries joined citizens from the five Gulf states to address the issue of marine debris.

In conjunction with the Gulf of Mexico Program, "The Children's Alliance for Protection of the Environment" (CAPE) spearheaded a program of 40,000 young volunteers participating in a wider Caribbean area beach cleanup.

Volunteers recorded data on the trash collected or inclusion in the National Marine Data Base located at the Center for Marine Conservation in Washington, D.C. The following listing represents the results for each state:

STATE	VOLUNTEERS	TONS	MILES
Alabama	2,618	37	62
Florida	10,164	134	710
Louisiana	6,450	125	286
Mississippi	1,865	22	110
Texas	15,822	233	185
TOTALS:	36,918	551	1,363

Several tons of collected trash were recycled. Texas, for example, recycled 19 tons of plastic.

In addition to the figures of trash collected and recycled, petitions were gathered to encourage Special Area Designation (SAD) of the Gulf of Mexico under the provisions of an international treaty (Annex V of the International Convention for the Prevention of Pollution from Ships).

The petitions signed by citizens from the Gulf states were presented to Admiral Kime, head of the U.S. Coast Guard. Admiral Kime chairs the delegation that will introduce SAD at the upcoming meeting of the International Maritime Organization (IMO) in London, England on Nov. 12-16.
